Carolyn Zhong

Assignment 6

      For the design of my shopping cart page, I edited it from my original high fidelity prototypes from earlier assignments to have a separate "order summary" column as opposed to just one large box. This I felt made the interface more intuitive for when customers are purchasing more products. In addition, by having the separate order summary, I think the total price and checkout buttons are more attention grabbing. I kept the rest of my design choices the same, such as having easily editable quantities and glaze, and a button that allows the customer to remove the product easily.